About Wright State

The youngest of Ohio's twelve state universities has come of age. Founded in 1964 as the Dayton campus of Ohio State and Miami Universities with one building and 3,200 students, Wright State University today serves more than 14,000 students from the Dayton area, the state of Ohio, and other states and countries.

Wright State offers a comprehensive array of programs through its nine major academic divisions. Eight different bachelor's degree programs are offered in nearly eighty fields through the Colleges of Business and Administration, Education, Liberal Arts, Science and Engineering, and the School of Nursing. More than twenty programs leading to the master's degree in many of those fields are coordinated by the School of Graduate Studies. The School of Medicine has been enrolling students in its M.D. program since 1976, and the new School of Professional Psychology will begin admitting students to its Psy.D. program in 1979. The university's first Ph.D. program, in biomedical sciences, will also begin admitting students in 1979. The College of Continuing and Community Education, located in the downtown Dayton Kettering Center, offers noncredit courses and workshops and special certificate programs in professional studies.

The four oldest buildings on campus, completed by the time university status was granted in 1967, comprise Founders Quadrangle, the hub of university academic and administrative activities. The University Center houses dining rooms, lounges, student offices, and the bookstore. Hamilton Hall provides residence facilities for 320 men and women in separate wings.

The Physical Education Building's main gym is home court for the Raider basketball team, and the building also contains an auxiliary gym, a 75-foot swimming pool with a spectator capacity of 500, classrooms, a dance room, special exercise facilities for the handicapped, saunas, handball and squash courts, and a lab for physiology of exercise.

The University Library has collections of books, journals, documents, and audiovisual materials related to every teaching field, as well as special collections of rare and valuable documents and memorabilia, including the Wright Brothers Collection. The Television Center, adjacent to the library, has studios and production facilities.

The Creative Arts Center is home for the fine arts, including theatre, music, art, and art education. Besides classrooms, there are two theatres, two concert halls, and two art galleries.

The Brehm Laboratory of Environmental Sciences, the Biological Sciences Building, and the Medical Sciences Building provide classrooms and laboratories for the university's expanding programs in the sciences, especially in the health-related fields.

The Student Services Building, completed in 1977, brings together most of the offices and services which exist to help students make the most of their Wright State education. An unusual feature of the campus is a tunnel system which links every major building, providing both convenience and shelter in case of emergencies.

Wright State University has been built with a philosophy of community orientation and is continually striving to improve its present programs and activities, and add new ones, to serve community needs. The university was founded as a result of a community fund-raising effort in 1962.

Robert J. Kegerreis, president

Robert J. Kegerreis is the second president of Wright State University. He has held the post since July, 1973.

After two years at Ohio University as professor and chairman of the marketing department, Dr. Kegerreis came to Wright State in 1969 as dean of the College of Business and Administration. In 1971, he was promoted to a vice-presidency, and two years later was named president of the university. His career as a teacher and administrator in higher education followed extensive experience in the business world.

He is a director of several corporations and a member of a number of professional associations and honorary societies.

His current public service involvement includes: president of the Ohio College Association; chairman of the Ohio Board of Regents Advisory Committee on Lifelong Learning; member of the Executive Committee and president of the Dayton-Miami Valley Board of Directors; member of the Board of Trustees and chairman of the Instruction Committee of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio; member of the Board of Trustees of Otterbein College; member of the Clarkson College Advisory Board; member of the Board of Trustees of the Engineering and Science Foundation; member of the Board of Trustees of the Dayton Art Institute; and membership in other civic organizations and committees.

Dr. Kegerreis holds four degrees from Ohio State University. He was awarded two bachelor's degrees in 1943, a Master of Business Administration in 1947 (after combat service as a naval officer), and a Ph.D. in business administration in 1968.

He and his wife, Katherine, have a son and a daughter.

Don Mohr,
director of athletics

Wright State is fortunate to have an athletic director who saw the "handwriting on the wall." When Mohr was planning the WSU athletic program, he included a women's program which equalled that of the men. Sports which receive grant-in-aid money at the present time are men's and women's basketball and swimming, women's volleyball, soccer, and wrestling.

Mohr has been associated with the world of sports since his days at Cincinnati North College Hill High School where he played football, baseball, and basketball for four years, and ran track for two years.

His first coaching position was at Cincinnati Reading High School where he was assistant coach in football and basketball. He took over the head baseball job in 1951 and did scouting for the Los Angeles (then Brooklyn) Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds during the summer.

He was appointed principal at Reading in 1956. He remained head baseball coach until 1963 and left Reading in 1965. While at Reading, he also received a Master of Education degree from Xavier University in 1961.

Then came the move to Wright State in 1966 as head of financial aid, placement, and the veterans office. He was asked to initiate an athletic program, which he did during the 1968-69 school year when he started a soccer team. In April 1971, he was named Director of Athletics.

Mohr's latest duty is chairman of the Division II Great Lakes Regional selection committee for the second straight year in basketball. He had been a member of the advisory committee for the previous four years in both basketball and baseball.

Raider Coaching Staff

Leading the Wright State basketball fortunes this season will be head coach Ralph Underhill and his assistants, Jim Brown and Bob Grote. Underhill is starting his first year as a collegiate head coach after spending the last six years as an assistant at Tennessee-Chattanooga.

Underhill was instrumental in leading UT-Chattanooga to the NCAA Division II national championship in 1976-77 with a 23-5 record. That came on the heels of a runnerup team in 1975-76 which finished with a 23-9 record.

A graduate of Tennessee Tech and Western Kentucky, Ralph spent one year as the head coach at Louisville Manual High School after a highly-successful stint as head coach at Ohio County High School in Kentucky.

While at Ohio County, Underhill led the team to a 126-30 record from 1965-71 and finished as the state runnerup in 1968-69. His team at Manual High School finished with a 24-6 record and advanced to the state tournament.

A member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes since his days at Tennessee Tech, Underhill has earned numerous coaching honors since his first job in 1965. He was the Western Kentucky High School Coach of the Year in 1969 and the Louisville Quarterback Club High School Coach of the Year in 1972.

Assisting Underhill in his first year at Wright State is associate coach Jim Brown who is starting his seventh year at Wright State. A graduate of the University of Dayton, Brown coordinates the academic standing of the varsity players as well as the recruiting for the staff. He played his high school basketball at Belmont High School under former WSU coach John Ross.

Brown came to Wright State in 1970 after a tour of duty in the Army. Among the duties assigned to Brown this season is the coordination of academic standing of the varsity players and coordinating the recruiting for the staff.

Joining Wright State as a part-time coach this year is former WSU all-American Bob Grote. The Cincinnati-native is currently a member of the New York Mets organization in professional baseball. While at Wright State, Grote lettered four times each in basketball and baseball and finished his career as the second all-time leading scorer.

Courtside conversation

This is the fifth meeting between the two cross-county rivals, with each holding two victories. Both of Central State's wins have come in the friendly confines of Beacom Fieldhouse (59-51 and 65-57) while both of WSU's wins are in the PE Building (62-60 and 84-80).

Although tonight's game is on a neutral court in the UD Arena, this is considered Wright State's home game while next year's game in the Arena will be Central State's.

Needless to say both teams are off to surprising starts this season with the Raiders winning eight of their first nine games (going into last Thursday's game at Akron) and Central State winning nine of its first ten (before the ISU-Evansville game on Saturday).

With the Raiders under first-year coach Ralph Underhill, a record of 5-4 through the month of December would have been considered a success, but the Raiders reeled off impressive road victories at Miami, St. Joe's and Youngstown, State to earn WSU the number 10 spot in Basketball Weekly's Division II ranking.

Central State started this season in a rebuilding stage, but the hustling Marauders won some close games enroute to its 9-1 start. The toughest part of the schedule rests ahead for coach Lu Wims with six straight road games to start January.

One Wright State player who is looking forward to the rematch is senior Bob Schaefer who has not fared well in his last two games against the Marauders. He managed just seven points last year and tallied just six in the previous meeting in 1975-76. A senior counterpart for CSU, Melvin Crafter, who sat out last year, scored nine key points in CSU's '75-76 win, 59-51.

Playing well is far from what the Raiders have managed at Beacom Fieldhouse, shooting a combined 36 percent from the field in both games. In addition, CSU has outrebounded the Raiders, 91-80, in the two matchups.

Crafter, who was a teammate with WSU's

Dan Huguely on Roosevelt's City League championship team in 1974-75, is leading the Marauders in scoring with a 25.1 average, and ranks 12th in Division II scoring. The only other returning starter from last year's 19-11 team is Venel Gray. The Marauders lost in the opening round of the NAIA national tournament to eventual champion Grand Canyon.

Later this week the NCAA will release its first Division II poll which is being conducted at the national convention in San Francisco this week by the Division II selection committee. It will be released every Wednesday throughout the remainder of the season.

Just a quick look at some of the other teams in the Great Lakes region competing for a tournament berth shows Wright State as a prime contender along with the likes of Eastern Illinois, St. Joe's, Bellarmine, Western Illinois, and Northern Kentucky. With the season not yet half over, many things can happen in the upcoming weeks.

A tough test is just ahead for the Raiders when they face a rematch with Indiana Central in Indianapolis this Wednesday. WSU managed a close 72-70 win at home earlier in December, so the Greyhounds are seeking a piece of revenge along with their first win ever over the Raiders.

The next home game for Wright State will be this coming Saturday when Thomas More visits the PE Building for a 7:30 p.m. start. The Rebels have always been a tough team for Wright State, even in some of their lean years.

In addition to basketball home action, plenty of other Wright State teams will be at home this week. The women's basketball team (1-1) opens its home schedule on Tuesday night against Ohio University, followed by a Friday night game with Cleveland State and Saturday prelim with Rio Grande. The women's swimming team (1-0) entertains Miami on Saturday at 2 p.m. That will make a full day of home competition starting at 2 p.m. with the swimmers and finishing with the basketball game against Thomas More at 7:30 p.m.

Wright State's basketball program is a publication of the Sports Information Office, David L. Stahl, director, and Steve Kelly, assistant director. Layout and production by Dennis Kelble, University Publications. Contributing writers Richard Fletcher, Rachel Pequignot and Brent Rutkowski, sports information office.

Schaefer Reflects Our New Record

The night was December 22, 1978. That's when Bob Schaefer became the all-time leading scorer in Wright State basketball annals with his 23-point performance against Capital.

As a matter of fact, his final point was the eventual game-winner on a free throw with six seconds left in the game. The final score was 85-81 over the stubborn Crusaders.

"I didn't think I would get the record this early in the season," commented Schaefer. "Especially the way I started out pretty slow. The last couple of games I felt better in the offense. It's a pretty big thing for me."

The record was previously held by sharpshooting Lyle Falknor who amassed 1,418 points over his four-year career with the Raiders. Schaefer's 23 points gave him a total of 1,420 tallies with 18 regular-season games remaining in 1979.

When Ralph Underhill assumed the head coaching position at Wright State, he said that his team would press for the entire game and would run as often as possible. Now, Schaefer is not placed with outstanding quickness, so some observers felt he would not fit into that style of basketball.

"I really like a running game," Schaefer explained. "The way we play doesn't have a lot to do with quickness, but more with hustle. We just out-hustle the other team. We aren't super slow, but we aren't super quick either. Our pressing game has been winning our games for us along with our defense."

The last time a group of seniors (Falknor, Bob Grote, Steve Shook, and Rick Martin) earned an NCAA tournament berth in their final season was Schaefer's freshman year when the Raiders were 20-8.

"At the beginning of the year the team just set a goal to reach the NCAA tournament," Schaefer said. "Now we want to go farther, hopefully beyond the regionals. We are going to have to continue playing better to advance in the tournament, but we've learned our presses a lot quicker than I expected, so you never know."

"One of the keys this year has been the bench playing super. They come in and score a couple of quick baskets or get us a steal. It helps me a lot with a break. I don't have to pace myself this year with a couple of minutes out each half. This year when you're ready to be taken out I just say I need a rest.

It has a lot to do with the team's closeness. Everybody knows what to expect from each other. With three seniors playing as starters, we lead by the way we play and act on the court (Schaefer, Jimmie Carter and Bob Cook). With Dan (Huguely) coming off the bench and playing well, he keeps the guys going on the bench. Everybody has accepted their role pretty well this year. Certain games someone might get upset because he didn't play, but in the next game he might play 25 minutes."

Indeed that has been the case so far this season with seven players seeing action in all nine games and three more in eight. Eddie Crowe missed three games because of an ankle injury while Hartings missed one with the same problem.

For any pressing team to be successful, a strong bench is mandatory. Forty minutes of running up and down the court is more than any five-man team can handle. So, most games have seen 10 or more players on the court.

"I'm really glad I came here to school," Schaefer remarked with a sense of pride. "I got to be in a program which was just starting and I helped it get started. Getting to play every game has helped me become a better basketball player."

"Besides, I think Wright State will pass UD someday anyway. It's going to have to come someday. Wright State has so many advantages and just look what it has done so far in such a short time."

One of those things is a top 10 ranking in Division II by Basketball Weekly. The national publication has listed Wright State in 10th place in its first poll with the NCAA poll to come out later this week.

"The high ranking sort of went to our heads last year," said Schaefer. "But, I think we learned a lot from that. We will just have to play a lot better and show people we deserve to be ranked and aren't just a fluke."

"I don't think we should have to play at the UD Arena," Schaefer said. "I like it because it gives us better exposure, but it makes it seem that UD is so much better because we have to go play there to draw people."

Tonight's featured player . . .

Bill Wilson

This Year: Bill is coming off a sparkling season as a sophomore when he was the second leading scorer with an 11.0 average. He got his chance to start in mid-December and earned the starting berth for the rest of the season. Not only did his scoring output improve, but he usually drew the assignment of guarding the opposition's top guard. During one 13-game stretch in January and February, the 6-2 Columbus-native averaged nearly 14 points per contest. Only the tremendous hustle of senior Bob Cook prevented Wilson from getting a starting nod this season. Through the first nine games, Wilson is averaging 6.6 points per game which leads all players coming off the bench. Despite his relief role, the slender guard is still playing nearly 18 minutes per game this season. After some early season shooting problems, he has improved his shooting percentage to 42.1 from the field, which is still slightly below his mark of 46.6 as a sophomore. His 10 points against both Indiana Central and St. Joe's were vital for both victories. Perhaps he had some added incentive when Capital visited the PE Building in December because it is a Columbus school, but Billy tied for rebounding honors with six along with his 12 points. If the Raiders are to remain a contender for NCAA tournament action, players like Wilson must continue to give the team a lift off the bench.

Coach's Evaluation: "Bill has nice outside range with his jump shot. He has to work just a little bit on his ball handling, but that will come with confidence. He's an intense competitor on the court. He also has the quickness I like for pressing with a guard. His ability to drive to the basket will make his jump shot just that much more effective."

Personal: Full name—William E. Wilson. Age 20 (born August 2, 1958). College: Business and Administration (major—marketing). The son of Michael and Ellen Wilson, Bill has three older brothers. He lettered in basketball (3) at Eastmoor and led the Columbus City League in scoring as a senior with a 21.8 average. He was first team all-City, first team all-County and first team all-District selection as a senior. Bill joined the married ranks this past summer, marrying the former Lynn Vines.
